“Today’s ongoing security threats are a moving target, and the growing reliance on wireless communications and compliance mandates adds to an organisations risk profile,” said Carlo Minassian, Founder and CEO of earthwave. “Throughout Australia, earthwave’s customers and partners are staying ahead of these mounting threats by relying on earthwave Managed Security Services, which provide protection from and visibility of security threats combined with best practices for fast, effective remediation.”

“Because Managed Security Services are an essential part of our Layered Security Solution, earthwave is pleased that Gartner has given us a Positive Rating among MSSPs in Asia Pacific,” he said. “We view this as validation of earthwave’s comprehensive approach to securing business interactions on the Internet – one that encompasses protecting a company’s consumers, brand, web site and network.”
